Annual Cherry Sheet Released, No Effect Seen On Tax Rate

Town officials announced that the figures in the fiscal 1981 "cherry sheet" released by the state last week will have virtually no affect on the town's tax rate, despite a net loss of approximately $126,000 compared to last year.

Town Manager Thomas Groux said the projected tax increase of $4.46 announced at Town Meeting would probably remain. . That would push the rate next year to $79.26.

The "cherry sheet" is a form released by the state at the end of each fiscal year that estimates the amount of money towns are to be reimbursed by the state as well as how much they must pay the state and county governments for services .

State aid was estimated at $2,832,121 , a drop of almost $53,000 from last year. Meanwhile, charges rose from $1,497,801 to $1,570,249. If the $126,000 had been restored it would have reduced the tax rate by approximately 60 cents, said Comptroller Alphonse Faggiano.

Faggiano received praise from other town officials for projecting "almost to the penny" what the reimbursements and charges would amount to.

"I haven't looked at the figures closely but Al (Faggiano) told me the projections were pretty much on the nose. I'm not pleased that the rate is going up $4.46 but it could have been worse if the projections had been wrong," Selectman Chairman Wade Welch said.

Although state aid exceeded charges by more than $1.2 million Faggiano explained that state mandated programs easily wiped out the surplus. Chapter 766 programs, which require certain classes for handicapped students, cost Winchester over $1 million in direct costs last year and another $400,000 in indirect costs such as classroom maintenance, heating and materials, Faggiano said.

The two biggest charge increases came from the Mass. Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) and Middlesex County assessments.

The "T" assessment rose over $75,000 — to $393,800. County costs climbed up to $451,407 from the $402,000 figure of a year ago. The county costs particularly irked Groux and Faggiano. The state assumed county court costs starting in fiscal 1979 and it was expected to dramatically decrease assessments to the communities. However, after an initial drop, the costs are climbing back to where they were prior to 1979.

"In the first year without the court costs our assessment was $304,000," Faggiano said. "Just two years later it's back up to $451,000. The last year before the state picked up the court costs it was in middle 500's ($587,000) pretty consistently. Now in just two years it's almost back to that level."

When asked what the county provided in return for the assessments, Groux replied, "I don't want to say nothing but I honestly don't know what they do."

John Daly, administrative assistant in the Middlesex County Commissioners office, protested that the state has yet to live up to its promise of reimbursing the counties for . maintenance of the court system. If the state had provided the $11 million required to maintain and operate the court system, Daly insisted the costs would have decreased.

"If we had got that, which we are supposed to, then the assessment would have actually gone down and that's a plain fact. People always bitch about us charging more but not about the state not paying us. The county is always the whipping boy," Daly complained.

Daly said his office received word this week from the state that it would be reimbursed slightly m re than $900,000 for court costs, over $10 million less than hat is needed. Statewide, he added that approximately $27 million would have been needed to offset costs but that the state would be returning just $5 million to

Town Meeting: Major Actions Taken During Fourteen Sessions

The discussions are over, the articles voted, and the Town Meeting dissolved. With the conclusion last week of the Annual Spring Town Meeting, it's now possible to examine the major actions taken during the record-tying 14 sessions.

Three Schools

Perhaps the most controversial articles centered on the re-use of three elementary schools which closed this year under the school consolidation plan - Noonan, Washington and Parkhurst. And, of the three, the greatest discussions were fostered by the Parkhurst site.

Town Meeting members defeated the warrant article which would have authorized the Board of Selectmen to sell the site for single family residences. However, this action was taken after the motion had been recommitted to the Re-Use Committee for further study.

Following a November Town Meeting directive that the site be developed for single family residences, the committee studied only development proposals for that use. (Originally the committee recommended the site be used for condominiums).

The Re-Use Committee and Selectmen are now wrestling with whether the school should be used to house one of two private schools - the Bartlett School, present tenant of the Wyman School, or the Waldorf School in Belmont. The Waldorf School has expressed specific interest in the Wyman School while the Bartlett School favors Parkhurst.

The Selectmen are expected to authorize a tenancy at will agreement for the Washington School site. The most likely candidate for occupancy of the school is Winchester Hospital, which would use it for business related purposes. The agreement will have a six-month cancellation policy.

The Noonan School will be converted into 18 units of elderly housing by the Westwood firm of McNeil & Associates. The Selectmen will sell the site for not less than $75,000; the school will be converted into 14 one-bedroom and four two-bedroom units.

Town Services

Town Meeting approved funding for weekly garbage collection and continuation of the mini-bus transit system, despite the fact that the amount of MBTA reimbursement was uncertain at the time.

According to reports from interim MBTA Chairman Barry Locke, the MBTA reimbursement for the system will be on a month to month basis. This week the Selectmen voted a fare increase for all hours of operation.

After an initial Town Meeting vote not to override the levy tax cap, the Finance Committee recommended that the mini-bus and garbage collection monies be cut from the budget. These recommendations, however, were defeated by Town Meeting, and the services remain intact.

Discussion Continues On Use Of Elementary Schools

Whether to allow the Bartlett School to move from its present Wyman School location to the now closed Parkhurst School; whether to allow the Belmont-based private Waldorf School to sub-let the Wyman site; or whether to make other use of the schools, either for educational or residential purposes, was the major issue of discussion at Monday night's Board of Selectmen meeting.

With the apvtment of citizen committees from both the Parkhurst and Wyman areas, the Board of Selectmen hope to be able to reach a decision by the end of this month as to the plan for the schools.

At present, the Bartlett School seeks to occupy the Parkhurst School; and the Waldorf School appears interested in relocating to the Wyman School when their lease expires at the end of August. According to Pat Brandes, the Waldorf School business manager who was present at Monday's meeting, the Waldorf School has not yet considered the possibility of occupying the Parkhurst site. Brandes said Tuesday she expects that by the end of this week a decision would be made on whether the Waldorf School is interested in local prospects. -

Brandes told the Selectmen and approximately 35 audience members that the faculty run school is presently located in the First Armenian Church on Concord avenue. The lease expires at the end of August. The school, whose "educational philosophy" is similar to the Montessouri method, now houses 113 students and 13 faculty members from nursery school age through grade seven.

As outlined by Selectmen Edward O'Connell and Alan Macdonald, several options are available: sub-lease the Wyman School to the Waldorf School and move the Bartlett to the Parkhurst site on a tenant at will basis; sub-lease the schools while negotiating a longterm lease; or reject these options altogether in a favor of some other use.

Although the Selectmen can accomplish a sub-let agreement without Town Meeting approval, negotiation of a new lease requires Meeting authorization.

One of the kwns is what how Town Meeting's rejection of the single family residence article last month should be construed. Some feel rejection signals approval for the Bartlett School to move to Parkhurst. Others see it as see it simply as rejection of the single family residential concept.

"If we fill both schools with schools, we haven't hurt the programs. To be

Standardized Test Scores: What Do They Mean?

How can a community insure that its public schools will provide the type of education that will allow its students to perform highly on standardized tests?

Per pupil costs and teacher-pupil ratios are often cited as major influences. Any comparison of communities would have to include a look at the town's per capita income and percentage of students taking the test.

So when the Boston Globe printed a study of 60 school systems in Massachusetts this week, Winchester included, that featured all the above factors as well as test scores, it, predictably, drew local reaction.

The Star received a few letters after the report appeared. One writer asked what had happened to the town in the past 10 years since it used to be among the top three in the state in per pupil costs. The statistics showed that 13 of the 60 districts polled spent more per pupil than Winchester.

Another expressed concern over the fact that some communities spent less per pupil than Winchester and yet had better test scores. Just what do these statistics prove?

Walter Gleason, who retired in June as Curriculum Director in Winchester, said anytime these type of comparisons are discussed it "stirs up a real hornet's nest."

He emphatically denied that the figures in the Globe report revealed any decline in the public education offered in Winchester. A major factor that the Globe omitted, he said, were the IQ's of the students involved.

For instance, he said the average IQ of students in Weston was 123. In Winchester the average IQ was 113. "One has to look at the IQ's involved," Gleason said. "If the IQ's are just about the same then some comparisons can be made," he said as long as other factors (like per pupil costs and per capita income) were similar.

Gleason also complained that comparing test scores without really knowing what they mean is hazardous at best. For example, if one system's sixth grade students produce test scores that are equivelent to grade 8.1 and another's sixth graders show a 7.8 grade equivelent what is the actual difference between the two systems ?

The difference may be a "question of one question," Gleason said. "It may mean the difference between one question wrong and zero questions wrong. What does that prove?"

Caterpillars, Not Moths, Are Problem

While other communities may be feeling the effects of this year's gypsy moth crop, the Town of Winchester is suffering more from from the handiwork of tent caterpillars, according to Public Works Director Walter Tonaszuck.

Although the spots on the backs of each animal may be the only observable difference between the two, Tonaszuck says they are attracted to different types of vegetation. While tent capterpillars will propagate and feed off chery or fruit trees, in web-like formations, gypsy moths create a long strand - allowing the wind to carry them from there.

Tonaszuck says that gypsy moths favor oak trees (Winchester's town owned trees are mostly maple); tent caterpillars go for crab apple, fruit and cherry trees. Most of the defoliation to date, Tonaszuck says, is due to tent caterpillars.

Tonaszuck says that although Winchester's gypsy moth problem has increased this year, he would not call it severe. Other communities, such as Easton, have had whole areas visibly stripped of vegetation.

He says that to spray at this date would be unwarranted expense. The moths are avfqopment stage where they consume little food, and chemical sprays must be ingested to be effective. "They're more of a nuisance than anything else," Tonaszuck says.

Two of them in "The Four of Us" are John Corrie, director and Patricia Wilbur, soprano. Singing "They All Laughed," the duo are members of the quartet which recently performed at The Parish of the Epiphany in the Cloister Garden Concert Series. The next concert is July 10. (Photo by Marc McGeehan)

All's Quiet As Ackerman Begins Curriculum Position

With the controversey over his professional qualifications still unresolved, new Curriculum Director David Ackerman officially began his job this week in Winchester.

After his first full day of work in town, Ackerman said he hopes that the "political effects" of the controversey surrounding his appointment will end and the work of overseeing and developing the town's curriculum can start unimpaired.

"That the School Committee voted 5-0 for me with one abstention was wonderful support," Ackerman said Tuesday. "I hope and expect to have Mrs. (Constance) Papas' support as well. It will probably be finally laid to rest when my doctorate is done," he said.

Papas, however, did not appear willing to offer any support as of this week. "I'm very unhappy that I'm not getting any straight answers. Go back and look over his resume and it's like a sieve. What are we trying to hide?" she asked.

She added that she was not satisfied with the answers to questions raised at last week's School Committee meeting where Ackerman read a prepared statement explaining why he failed to receive his doctorate in education from Harvard as he told the committee he would when interviewed in March.

Little Can Be Done To Halt Cable Failure

There is very little that can be done to prevent or forecast the type of cable failure that caused last week's five-hour blackout, according to a Boston Edison official.

William Jones, district manager of the Woburn office, said the cable short-circuited in the manhole at the rotary in the center of town because of moisture. "Anytime moisture gets into it there's a chance a slight break will start," Jones said.

The power failure started at 3:05 p.m. and power was not restored until shortly after 8 p.m. The last time a similar failure occurred in the downtown area was July, 1976, Jones said.

"There simply isn't that much preventive maintenance that can be done," Jones added. "If a fault does develop they can go over the area but with underground cables it's difficult to check more than what can be seen right in the manhole."

If the cable had broken in between the manhole and the station in Woburn, Jones said the repairs would have taken close to 12 hours.

Many businesses in the center were forced to shut down for the five-hour period. The police and fire stations automatically went onto emergency power systems after the power went off.

Joseph Doherty, manager at Purity Supreme, was on vacation last weekq said his store was forced to close down for the entire period. "Because of security and legal reasons your just about dead. You have to really close your doors," he said. The cash registers, refrigeration, lighting and alarms all were effected by the blackout.

"It's bad," moaned a spokesman at Randall's Restaurant. "We had to close all night. We reopened at 8:30 but by then all the customers were gone. Once you close down people start calling the next day to see if you are going to be open. They don't know. It's very bad for business."

McCormack's Apothecary lost just its air conditioning and was one of few places to remain open for business. A spokesman there said the cable for the lighting was a different than the one for air conditioning.

Boston Edison officials and local Fire Department employees check out manhole that caused the more than five-hour blackout in the downtown area last Tuesday. A defective cable was blamed for the power shortage. (Staff Photo)

Meals On Wheels Makes 5,000 Deliveries Since 1979

Since Meals on Wheels began in January, 1979, over 5,000 meals have been delivered to 55 different home-bound recipients. The privately-funded program supplies hot and cold meals five days a week to people who are unable to cook for themselves or who cannot get out to buy food.

The meals, prepared by the Food Services department at Winchester Hospital, are picked up by voluntters who then make the deliveries in their own cars.

Anne Hughes, coordinator of the program, says that Meals on Wheels recipeints receive the food at cost. "Other prtograms charge more for meals and then use that revenue to pay staff members. The Winchester program relies on private funding to pay salaries and buy supplies," she says.

EnKa Society bought the original food chests for Meals on Wheels and has since contributed to the funding. EnKa volunteers also deliver meals every Monday and Tuesday. The Red Cross delivers on Wednesday; Church Women United on Thursday; Friday is reserved for indivudals who volunteer to help with deliveries. Five different volunteers deliver meals every week. "An emergency," explains Anne Hughes, "means someone who will need meals for a limited amount of time. A person who has just had cataract surgery for instance or an individual who is expecting a friend or relative to come but needs the service for a week or 10 days in the interim, are typical examples of the kinds of last minute cases we get. Doctors also use the program as a stop-gap for their patients while they are waiting for other services."

Who gets Meals on Wheels is decided by the physician, social services and the Meals on Wheels coordinator, who interviews each prospective recipient to determine need. "Because we are privately funded," says Hughes, "the decision to admit an individual to the program is not based on income but rather on need.

The cost of running Means on Wheels for one year is almost $4,000, part of which goes towards salaries and part of which goes towards the purchase of food chests and other supplies.

Besides En Ka Society, other organizations contributing to Winchester's Meals on Wheels program are the Rotary Club, Church of the Epiphany, First Congregational Church, Harkins Charitable Fund, St. Mary's Sodality, Immaculate Conception Sodality and the Winchester Seniors Association.

Televisions, Cash, Jewelry Taken In Three Breaks

Televisions, cash, jewelry and other items were taken in three separate housebreaks last week.

A $400 camera, television set and jewelry were taken from a Hemingway street home. Police said the thieves gained entrance through the kitchen wid window. A Thornberry road resident reported to police her home was broken it into and various ite items, including jewelry and pewter, were taken.

Thieves who gained entrance into a Wildwood street home walked off with a $100 bill and three $1 dollar bills but apparently left behind a bag of marijuana and a number of other valuables in the house. Police said entrance was gained by breaking a window in the back door. More cash, television and stereos were left untouched. The bag of pot was found by police on the kitchen table.

A Cumberland Farms employee reported the theft of a bank deposit bag contining $900 from the last week. He told police he had left the bag unattended on the counter and when he returned it was gone.

In other police news, a 17-year-old local girl was arrested near Canal and Farrow streets for illegal possession of liquor. She was reportedly with a group of more than 20 youths drinking. When police told them to leave the area she became abusive and refused to leave the beer behind. :

Old Colony Gas Station manager Jenny Haley reported that five cartons of cigarettes, $30 cash and $16.12 worth of gas was stolen from the Cambridge street station last week after

. closing time . She added that a number of employees recently fired had keys to the building and that she would be changing the lock soon.

Police also reported that a car stolen from Somerville and owned by a Cambridge man was found engulfed in flames near the J.H. Winn Company on Washington street on Monday.

A 17-year-old local girl told police that a man driving by her in a car on Church street pulled up next to her and began fondling himself. He then fled the area.

Stolen cars were reported on Forest street and Aberjona drive. Bicycle thefts were reported at Leonard Beach and from in front of One or Two Things in the center.

Incidents of vandalism were reported on Johnson and Ridge roads, Quigley court, Central street, Cabot street, at the Noonan School and Andreas Pizza on Main street.

A High street resident reported the theft of camera equipment valued at $660 from his car while it was parked in his driveway. Other larcenies were reported on Hinds road, Westland avenue, Symmes road, Aberjona way and Highland avenue.

Metropolitan District Police reported the drowning of a 15-year-old Somerville boy in the Mystic Lakes near the Medford-Winchester line. Christopher DeSousa, 169 Green st., was pronounced dead at Lawrence Memorial Hospital in Medford after his inflatable pillow lost air. Police said DeSousa did not know how to swim and was in water that was close to 40 feet deep.

Hospital Juniors Are Treated To Sundae Party

Over 100 regularly scheduled junior volunteers were invited to a Sunday sundae party at Winchester Hospital in appreciation of their volunteer service to the hospital throughout the past school year. A smorgasbord of ice cream delights with a wide variety of delectable toppings was provided by the food service department of the hospital.

Phyllis R. Hollingshead, director of volunteer service, commended the following volunteers from Winchester, Reading, North Reading, Woburn, Burlington and Lexington who worked every week throughout the school year: John Conlin, Robert Dixon, Ken Mithcell, Mark Sobkowicz, Lisa Melaragni, Julie Shaw, Jean Moradian, Margaret Brown, Alicia Mawm, Clare Shawcross, Lindy Craig, Andree Bakarian, Kathy DiChiappari, Audrey Aronson, Laureen DelloRusso, Naro Khandjian.

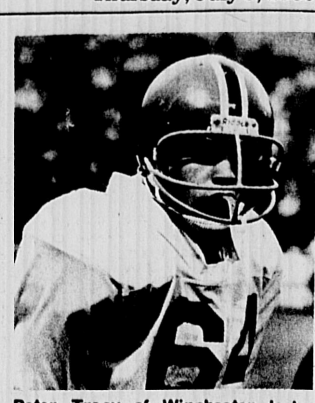

About 60 of the junior volunteers will be continuing their service to the hospital during the summer months and will be joined by a group of 101 new volunteers who attended orientation classes in the spring and have been in training during the last three months.

Summer Beach Schedule

The Winchester Recreation Department announces the summer beach schedule.

Leonard Beach (off of Cross street) is open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wedge Pond (off of Palmer street) is open every day from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Lifeguards are on duty at all times during open beach hours. Swim instruction is offered for youths, Monday through Friday. Classes are in the morning at Leonard and in the afternoon at Wedge.

Garden Concert Continues July 10 At Epiphany

The gates of the Parish of the Epiphany's cloister garden will open July 10 at 8:30 p.m. to welcome music lovers to this summer's third Cloister Garden Concert. This week, The New Renaissance Brass Quintet will perform pieces ranging from Bach to the Beatles.

The quintet was formed by a group of friends, all professional free-lance musicians, to promote quality performances of the finest brass chamber literature. Their music attests to the 20th century's new renaissance in literature and performance for and by brass musicians. The quintet continually seeks new works for its ensemble along with novel approaches to old favorites.

Thursday's concert will include two suites of renaissance dances, one by Tylman Susato and the other by Giles Farnaby. The quintet will also play transcriptions of music by J.S. Bach and other baroque composers.

Music of later periods will include Victor Ewald's Third Brass Quintet, a work in the Russian romantic style, and The Malcolm Arnold Quintet, a light English piece. There will also be pieces from "The American Brass Band Journal," a collection dating from the 1840s and 1850s, followed by some Beatles songs.

Music has played a constant part in the lives of the five musicians. Trumpeter Dennis Alves graduated from Boston University, where he studied wth Roger Voisin. He was a fellow at Tanglewood and is principal trumpet with the Boston Ballet. He has also played with the Boston Symphony, the Oepra Company of Boston, and the Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra.

David Bannard, the concert's organizer and also a trumpet player, is a member of the Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra, the Chamber Orchestra of the Commonwealth, the Brockton Symphony, and has played with the Opera Company of Boston and Opera New England. He graduated from Indiana University where he studied with Louis Davidson and he has also worked with Roger Voisin.

Thomas Beal, French horn player, has studied with Thomas Newell at New England Conservatory. He played with the Santa Fe Opera and Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra.

The group's trombone player, Don Davis, is a graduate of the New England Conservatory where he studied with John Swallow. He is a member of the Portland Symphony and has played with the Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra, the Opera Company of Boston and the Brockton Symphony.

Tuba player Don Rankin graduated from New England Conservatory where he studied with Toby Hanks. He has played with the Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra, the Brockton Syphony and the Beacon Brass Quintet.

Music and the reflections of brass, torchlight and fountains in the cloister garden will compose a refreshing evening for the community. More information about the concert may be obtained by calling the church office. Tickets will be available at the gate.

Recreation Cultural Arts Now Underway

The Winchester Recreation Department cultural Arts program is underway for this summer.

Under the direction of Beth Russell (director - instructor) are instructors Simon Donovan and Laurea Ross. All three are local Winchester residents and college students. They have been preparing for the opening of classes this week, and are enthusiastic about the instruction. Session I features painting and drawing and continues until July.

Two other two-week sessions will be held, and there's still time to register. Session I (July 14 - 25) presents sculpture, while Session III (July 28 - Aug. 8) features printmaking and weaving. All sessions include exercises in creative dramatics. Games such as "People-To-People," "Sticky Feet" and "Roll up and Become" will be played.

Children grades one through six are encouraged to enroll; participants may register for more than one session, as there will be no repetition of material. There is a small registration fee. Contact the Recreation Department to sign up. Russell invites youngsters to "join in on the fun. We have many new ideas to share with you."

Sachem Baseball Falls To Reading; Record At 2-2-1

Winchester's entry in the Northeast Summer League has 2 wins, 2 losses and 1 tie, as of July 1.

The Sachems Summer Team won its first game against Burlington 11-5, behind the strong pitching of Ken Jacobsen and Steve McDonald. The Sachem hitters scored six runs in the first inning featuring hits by Bruce Campbell, Billy Barron, Chuck Allard. There were also three walks and two Burlington errors.

Two more runs came across in the second inning after Bill Barron and John Wiseman singled, executed a double steal and then scored on ground outs.

Scoring in the third inning on a long double by John Wiseman were Barron and Campbell.

The Sachems were shut out in their second game 6-0 by Wilmington. Winchester's hitters had 9 safetys but could not push a run across. Paul Mathson led the Sachems with two doubles and a single. Steve Costello and Steve Dionne pitched for the Sachems and after a tough first inning (three runs) did a good job.

Lynnfield was the second Sachem victory by a 10-6 score. The boys from Winchester played very well in this contest which featured the pitching of John Myers and Steve McDonald. Both of these players are frosh from McCall and Lynch Junior High teams. Steve Costello tripled in Sam Kenton and Richie Fennell to score two runs in the first inning.

Six runs crossed the plate in the second inning featuring hits by Rich Fennell, Paul Mathson and Paul DiGregorio. Greg Kirk added another run in the third inning after a single, a steal, and a passed ball. Steve Hollahan and Mike Collozzi split the catching role in Lynnfield and threw out three runners trying to steal.

Against Everett the Sachems showed some real 'guts.' Down 5-0 after two innings the Sachems battled hard, went ahead, fell behind and then came back to tie as time ran out. Everett scored five runs off of starter Steve Costello in the first two innings. Ken Jacobsen came in and stopped Everett with only one hit the rest of the wary. Unfortunately, that hit was a home run after two Sachem errors.

Chuck Allard doubled Mathson in to score the Sachems first run in the second inning and begin the Sachems comeback. In the third, Winchester hitters produced six runs to take the lead. Big hits were delivered by Collozzi, McDonald, DiGregorio and Barron.

Everett took an 8 - 7 lead after their only hit off Jacobson but the Sachems produced a run to tie the game in their last at bat. Kenton and Fennell both singled and Kenton scored on a clutch single by Barron.

The Middlesex League leaders, Reading, showed why they are undefeated this summer as they scored a 5-1 victory over the Sachems.

Winchester's Kenton pitched a super game up to the fifth inning, when he had to leave due to a blister on his pitching hand. Kenton had held Reading to one hit until the fifth. It was then that Reading put together three 'seeing eye' hits, a couple of tough ground balls and a line single to score all five runs. Winchester's run came when Greg Kirk and Kenton singled and Kirk scored on a passed ball.

The Sachems play a 17-game schedule this year with their home games at Skillings Field at 6:00 p.m. The roster for this year's team is as follows: Campbell, Kenton, DiGregorio, Mathson, Hollahan, Jacobson, Barron, Wiseman, Chuck Adelsberger, Steve Dionne, Collozzi, Costello, Fennell, Kirk, Myers, Paul O'Brien, Kevin Scully, McDonald, Allard and Chris Cahill.

Sachem varsity coach Bill Chase set the team up and arranged all the finances and scheduling. Jim Maconochie is coaching the Sachems for the second summer.

Ballet School Holds Final Demonstration

The Harriet Hoctor Winchester Ballet School, under the direction of Mary B. Vasel, held two full days of ballet class demonstrations, entitled "Ballet School 1980," on June 7 and 14th at Chidley Hall, First Congregational Church.

Fourteen ballet demonstrations were given in which 220 of the school's pupils performed a ballet class at their level for parents and guests. Each demonstration was separate and included pre-ballet classes (pre-school), children's beginner, intermediate, and advanced classes, teen-age classes, and one of the school's intermediate-advanced adult classes.

Each demonstration closed with the announcement and presentation of the achievement awards for that group of pupils. These annual ballet demonstrations mark the close of the school's regular season, which runs from September - June. The ballet school's summer program began June 23.

★ Town Meeting

Town Budget

An estimated $20 million budget, including a $9 million education budget, was approved for fiscal 1981.

Sign By-Law

Local businesses were granted an additional three years to comply with the existing sign by-law.

Although the motion would have replaced the existing by-law with the drafted warrant article, this "grandfather" clause was the only condition which requested, and received, Town Meeting approval.

Economic Consultant

A joint appropriation between Chamber of Commerce and town officials was approved for hiring an economic development coordinator.

Town Meeting voted that the expenditure be restricted to receipt of matching funds on a 50-50 basis prior to the end of the November Town Meeting.

The vote provides that a total of $33,200 be jointly appropriated between the Chamber and the town. An approved amendment by Town Meeting member Vincent G. Carroll provides that a minimum of $10,000 shall be required in matching funds prior to the expenditure.

Water Rate Increase

Effective this past Tuesday, the price of water increased from 42 cents per 100 cubic feet to 65 cents per 100 cubic feet.

Town Manager Thomas Groux said that an increase in water rates will encourage conservation of water and produce more than $230,000 in additional revenues.

Revolving Funds

Recreation Department programs were made into a revolving account by a 62-61 vote of Town Meeting. Approval of this article was given, despite unfavorable recommendations by the Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee.

Caps and Taxes

Town Meeting voted to override the four percent levy cap, which it exceeds by $439,877. The town is under the separate four percent appropriations cap by $213,181.

At the conclusion of Town Meeting the tax rate was set at $79.26, an increase of $4.46 over the current rate.

Special Articles

Under two articles in the Special Town Meeting, $1,175,000 was approved for renovations to Winchester High School and five budget transfers within the 1980 fiscal budget were approved.

At the recommendation of the Board of Selectmen, Town Meeting subsequently defeated a motion to reconsider approval of the appropriated funds based on the developer's "substantial clerical error" contention. T.L.T Construction Corp. of Winthrop, the successful bidder, did not sign the contract; and the renovaion work has been re-bid.

The five approved transfers totalled $244,000.

Youth Council

An 11-member Council on Youth, similar in function to the Council on Aging, was established to study youth related problems in town.

Personnel

A 7.5 percent salary increase in the clerical, technical-professional and managerial-supervisory schedules were approved under Article 4 - recommended changes in the compensation plan and personnel policy guide.

Chamber Of Commerce Begins Consultant Fund Drive

The campaign to raise from $10,000 to $16,600 in matching funds for a community development programer officially commenced with the formation of the Fund Winchester's Future (FWF) Committee.

The committee, co-chaired by Marcia Saltmarsh of Saltmarsh Insurance and Neal Harte, C.P.A., is made up of representatives from the business, professional, and residential community. Members include R.J. Ted Allen, Clarence Borggaard, William Caci, Dan LaGatta, Carolyn Gunby, Kenneth Henderson, Larry Murray, Robert Nickerson, Salvador F. Porras, Rita Spence, Dr. Richard Stiles and Rev. John Bishop.

At a recent session, the Fund Winchester's Future Committee decided to send off 1200 letters to different segments of the business and residential population as its first course of action. The committee plans to run other fund-raising activities during the summer and before the fall town meeting when the matching funds must be delivered to the town.

Chairpersons Saltmarsh and Harte indicated that there was "already substantial support being generated for creating a community development program from the Winchester business people and citizens."

Checks have been received from Clarence Borggaard, Nicholas Fitzgerald of N.H. Fitzgerald Real Estate and from Winchester Realty Company.

Winchester Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Rita Spence also noted that the State's Executive Office of Communities and Development was interested in the prospect of a full-time community development planner and program for Winchester.

At a recent meeting at the Chamber office, Murph Yule from the Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD) said that his office was encouraged by the campaign to fund a community planner. Yule further told Spence, Chamber President and President of Winchester Savings Bank Robert Nickerson, and Town Engineer Jake Ciarcia that hiring a planner might very well lead the state to providing Winchester with financial assistance.

"The State wants proof that the businesses and the town are interested in improving their community. The state also wants to see an overall plan drawn up which itemizes where the town's major problems are and possible ways to solve such problems," said Yule.

"If Winchester funds an individual or a firm and then develops a comprehensive plan, the State is more inclined to provide the town with assistance for revitalization projects."

The Chamber and town representatives are planning more meetings with the State EOCD office to investigate possible methods of acquiring public improvement funds.

In the meantime, the Fund Winchester's Future Committee will be working to raise at least $10,000 before the fall Town Meeting. As was decided at a May Town Meeting, the town will not establish a community development program until the business and professional community raises between $10,000 and $16,600 in "seed money". The town would then allocate the remaining $16,600 needed to start a community development program.

★ Schools

hung up on a holding school could be the worst mistake we could make," Welch said.

Several reisdents, including Planning Board member Marion Crandall, expressed feelings that it would be unfair for action to be taken without proper notification of the Wyman School neighborhood. Increased difficulty to notify abutters during the summer months was also noted. The appointment of citizen committees is for the purpose of seeking residential input.

William Caci, a local rela realtor and Parkhurst neighbor, indicated that there was not unanimity among Parkhurst abutters favoring single family residences.

"I for one do not favor permanent occupation for the Parkhurst site," Caci said. He also said he wouldn't oppose condominiums in that site, and that condominiums in the building would be a better use that than a school.

Mary Brink, another Parkhurst abutter, said that Caci "speaks for himself." The majority of the neighborhood, she said, favors Bartlett's occupying the scol.

Selectmen O'Connell concluded the discussion by likening the situation to two barns with two horses needed to be housed in each. "Do we really worry about which horse will be in which barn," he said. We have need to accommodate two schools, two neighborhoods and two communitites, he said.

★ Test Scores

Papas said Winchester can do a better job but added there's a problem with comparing test scores and per pupil costs.

"The quality of instruction is still the most important issue of all," Papas maintained. " I think that if you look at the test scores of the past 10 years in Winchester you'll see what happened was the average IQ is lower than it was 10 years ago. It bottomed out about five years ago and now they are starting to get better again," she said.

People that complained of Winchester's 25 to 1 pupil teacher ratio for elementary schools forgot to take into account that the figure is written into the contract, Papas explain,.d. If by declining enrollments it is impossible to get the 25:1 ratio then teachers are cut, as is the case this year.

According to the figures released in the Globe,78 percent of Winchester High School students took the SAT's (college boards) and averaged 451 in the verbal testing and 493 in the math. The town of Weston had the highest scores in both categories, 505 in verbal and 549 in math.

"Given the socioeconomic background of the town as a whole we should score well and we should score better than we have. We can do better. But the entire system has to have it impressed on it that we want high standards," Papas said.

★ Cherry Sheet

When contacted, a spokesman for the office of the state Committee on Counties, headed by Rep. Charles Flaherty, declined comment.

Daly added that the county does actually provide services. He said extension services, such as the 4-H Club was maintained by the county. The House of Correction in Billerica is run by the county and the County Engineering Department provided for hearings to be held on things like road sites, town boundaries, etc.

MBTA spokesman Mila Dixon said employee cost of living increases mandated by union contracts and spiraling fuel costs were responsible for the larger assessment.

Another factor that contributed to the net loss was the fact that school aid from Chapter 70 of the general laws remained the same as last year.

"We didn't receive one penny increase in Chapter 70 money," Faggiano said. "How can you manage a budget with the increases because of inflation, contractual obligations and general town oper tions . Costs are increasing but we get the same amount as lastyear," Faggiano complained. Winchester is expected to receive $1.68 million in Chapter 70 costs again this year.

Faggiano admitted that the tax rate could be altered depending on the total valuation of the town property , which the assessors are compiling now and the amount of money returned to taxpayers in abatements. However, he added that he didn't expect those figures to have a significent effect.

When the assessors finish calculating the property valuation the forms will then be brought into the state Bureau of Accounts and the Department of Revenue for approval. If the figures are ok'd the town would then receive the go ahead to print and mail out the tax bills.

Overall, Faggiano was pleased with the numbers he saw on the cherry sheet in that it held no surprises. "It's not going to have any affect (on the tax rate) as far as we're concerned because of our projections. We projected lower receipts and larger charges and we seemed to hit it right on the button'" he said.

★ Ackerman

School Committee Chairman Catherine Alexander released Ackerman's answers to questions she received about his qualifications. They differed very little from what he said in his prepared text at the meeting. In the answers released this week, Ackerman said he realized during the first week in March that he would not complete his thesis which is the only remaining work he has left to earn his doctorate.

He added that because the doctorate was not a job requirement and because he had informed School Supt. William MacDonald that he may not finish his thesis this spring, "there was no cause for serious concern. In retrospect, I wish I had alerted you to the situation," he said.

He added that all the data for the thesis has been accumulated and that only the writing remains. He said there was a chance he may finish by Christmas but was "more certain in anticipating that I'll be done after Christmas but before the end of the school year."

The issue of his taking a vacation this month was something he and MacDonald both felt was taken out of perspective. Former School Committee member Mary Pronski, who refused to leave the School Committee meeting called to discuss Ackerman's reasons for not receiving his doctorate until it was conducted in open session, threatened to sue if Ackerman was allowed to take his vacation so soon after starting work.

"I don't subscribe to the view that someone has to work for a period of time before they can take a vacation," Ackerman said. "The four weeks vacation is in the contract. What has to be done is that the administration has to match its needs against the personal wishes of the employee. As far as I'm concerned I'm flexible. Whenever the superintendent thought I'd be more useful is when I'd take it. I don't see it as a big problem. It was, unfortunately, politicized," he said.

Gov. Edward King and State Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr. greet this year's Muraco School fourth graders during a recent tour of the State House.

Parochial School Enrollments Up, Officials Not Concerned

School officials shrugged off figures released recently that show 50 students transferred from Winchester public schools to parochial schools last year.

Enrollment in parochial schools by Winchester residents increased last year from 254 to 304. Private school enrollments remained the same at 223.

"It's a nationwide trend, whatever that means," School Supt. William MacDonald said. "Reports show that while everyone else is decreasing they (parochial and private) were increasing. There's nothing significent about our figures."

Most agree that the recent closing of three elementary schools has been a primary reason for the increase in parochial school enrollments last year.

"A lot of people took their child out of the public schools because they would be going to three different schools in three years because of the consolidation," said School Committee member Constance Papas. "I think we will reclaim some of those kids, not this year, but eventually. In some cases we will never get the kids back. But I don't get to upset about that because some will never be properly served in the public schools."

The smaller classrooms and stricter discipline in the private and parochial schools is necessary for some students to succeed, both Papas and MacDonald agreed. But at the same time the self-discipline that a student in the public schools must adhere to because of the arger classrooms and freer atmosphere can also be beneficial.

The possibility of getting "lost in the shuffle" is an aspect to public schools that bothers Papas. "When people say my child would have succeeded if I'd known he was having trouble or my child didn't have a chance (in larger public schools), that bothers me. We have built in so many programs. We have the regular programs for the 'regular kids' and then we have the 766 programs, resource rooms, Title 1 programs and classes for advanced students.

"If people complain about the education now compared to 20 years ago then I suggest they go back and see how many kids Winchester was educating then compared to now," Papas suggested.

"If you are in a affluent society then the people might prefer private schools a little bit more because it's the traditional thing. Their brothers went there, they went there, that type of thing," Macdonald said.

Audrey Deshler will be sending her daughter to St. Mary's to start the seventh grade this fall. The consolidation was one factor but the parochial school tradition was another.

"The values that St. Mary's taught appealed to us. The social scene is not as rapid and that appealed to us, too," Deshler said. "It's not that I'm displeased with the Winchester schools. But because of the consolidation I knew it was a stress time. Teachers are under a lot of strain. That made me a little unsettled, a little uneasy," she said.

Where the Deshler's daughter will go for high school remains to be seen. A Catholic high school is a possibility but Deshler added that she would probably try Winchester High School "for one year" and see how it turns out.

Local Artist Shows Work At Bank

The Winchester Art Associaton Association is exhibiting the oiwpngs of local artist Doris Holt, through the end of August at the Winchester Co-operative Bank.

Holt, a member of the Winchester Art Association, is also a member of the Lexington Art Association which sponsored an exhibit of her work last year.

She has had her work accepted and shown in several shows throughout the area. Currently some of her work is included in the National Exhibition of American Artists at the Ogunquit Art Center in Ogunquit, Maine.

Holt paints still life, landscapes, children, poster art, and is the illustrator of the coloring book "Hello Hospital." The coloring book is being used in the pre-orientation program for children at the Lawrence Memorial Hospital in Medford. For several years she was the illustrator of the hospital's news bulletin.

The Winchester Country Club began in 1897 when a number of young men interested in the then unfamiliar game of golf formed a club and hired a tract of land along Pond street and Woodside road in the neighborhood of Horn Pond.

Ron Perry - The Elder - Talks About Basketball And Ron Jr.

It has been a familiar name in Massachusetts sports circles now for two generations. But for the 94 kids that attended last week's basketball camp at Winchester High School, it was their first exposure to the Ronnie Perry their fathers grew up seeing star on the basketball courts and the baseball diamond.

If the kids knew more about Ronnie Perry Jr. it didn't seem to matter Friday afternoon when Perry, the senior, talked to the group about basketball in general, shooting in particular and about his son with pride.

"Needless to say I'm very proud of him," Perry, now 48, said of his son who recently graduated from Holy Cross magna cum laude. "He's had to work very hard and regardless of what happens I don't think he has anything left to prove."

As many know, Ronnie Jr. is in his first month of professional baseball, playing for Glen Falls (Chicago White Sox affiliate) of the Eastern League. In September he'll be at the Boston Celtics rookie camp after being chosen in the third round of the college draft last month.

As of last week he was hitting about .260 and had yet to commit an error at third base or shortstop in the 10 games he had played. Perry said the difference in the quality of play between college and the Double A level has been considerable.

"The pitching and the defense is really impressive," Perry said. "The hits that used to go through in college they're catching up to here."

Whether he makes it as a baseball player, basketball player or businessman the elder Perry is happy for his son. "Hey, he has the opportunity to try both things. Very few people get a chance like that. He gets to try this (baseball) for a few months and then basketball. Boston fans are tough, fans are tough everywhere. But if he doesn't go and make either team he's won as far as I'm concerned. I just want to see him happy."

By any standard Ron Perry Sr. has also been a winner. As Athletic Director at Holy Cross for the past seven years he has brought national recognition back to the basketball program and has generally revamped the entire athletic program at the Worcester college.

But if he's working behind the scenes now, many remember him when he was in the limelight. After starring at Catholic Memorial he went onto Holy Cross where he was co-captain . of a Crusader team that captured the 1954 National Invitational Tournament championship back when the NIT really meant something. Two years before that,as a sophomore,he helped pitch the Crusaders to the National Collegiate Athletic Association baseball title. His career pitching mark at HC was 23-2.

Ron Perry Sr. gives a few tips to the 94 youngsters that attended the week-long basketball camp held at the high school last week. Other speakers during the week included Boston University basketball coach Rick Pitino and former All-America guard and present coach of Bentley College, Brian Hamel.

Prior to returning to HC he coached Catholic Memorial High School (West Roxbury) into athletic prominence in baseball and basketball. His basketball teams won 10 consecutive conference crowns, eight New England Catholic Tournament titles, two state championships while compiling a 292-34 record.

His baseball teams could manage just 186 victories in 239 contests.

His goal now is to make sure Holy Cross remains a power in eastern basketball, a status which has been threatened since the formation of the Big East conference last year. The Big East grabbed traditional eastern powers like Syracuse, Georgetown, Boston College and Providence and left teams like Rhode Island and the Crusaders in a depleted ECAC circuit.

"Eastern bktball is very underrated," he insisted. "All those teams from the supposedly strong conferences, anytime they play eastern teams it's always at their place, they never come up here except for maybe Providence because they can get the guarantees," he said, referring to revenue from the larger arenas.

Perry was not the only impressive speaker at the week-long camp. Rick Pitino, coach of the rapidly improving Boston University basketball team visited Wednesday afternoon and Bentley coach and former All-America Brian Hamel talked to the aspiring hoop stars on Tuesday.

Camp organizer and WHS basketball coach John Myers was pleased with the week's workout although it would have been nice if a cooler week could have been picked.

"I was very happy with the week," Myers said Friday afternoon. "I wanted these kids to learn to give and to work at 100 percent all the time and they did, even in the heat."

Soccer Team Finishes Year Undefeated

The Winchester Teamen (Boys D-4) of the Boston Area Youth Soccer League won their division with a perfect 10-0 record. Outscoring their opposition 64-3 during the course of the season, the boys consistently displayed an aggressive, team-oriented style of play that saw 15 of the 17 players score in at least one of the games. Eight of the ten games played resulted in shutout victori3s for the Teamen.

The major competition for the Teamen came from a strong Burlington team. In their first encounter at Burlington, the two teams were deadlocked with four minutes to go in the game. Determined effort and some fine teamwork on the part of the Teamen at this point in the game led to the only score and a 1-0 win for the Winchesterites.

The second game between the two rivals was played at Winchester (the division championship could well have been at stake) with the Teamen putting it altogether and winning 6-0 in what could be described as the highlight of many fine performances.

Members of the champion Teamen are J.J. Alberts, Andre Behrmann, Hector Cromwell, David Ducharme, Vandy French, Miles Libbey, Tom Maher, Paul Marshall, Danny McGee, Michael McGeehan, Alex McNamee, Jackie O'Callaghan, Danny O'Grady, Tom O'Grady, David Romboli, David Snyder, and Scott Todisco. Head coaches Vandy French and Steve Romboli were ably assisted by Dan O'Grady and Jeff O'Grady.

Girls' Summer Softball Team Drops First Two Games

It has not been a pleasant initiation into the world of summer softball for Winchester's first appearance in the region's summer league.

A 12-3 defeat at the hands of archrival Woburn under the lights at Ginn Field was the second in a row for the local try as their record dropped to 0-2. Monday's game versus Andover was rained out.

Woburn tallied six times on just one hit in the second inning to get off and running. Adding insult to injury the visitors pushed across six more runs in the fifth without the benefit of even one hit. Three walks and four errors opened the floodgates in that inning.

Coach Kelly Gately expects the squad to turn around defensively and hopes pitcher Hilary Bradshaw straightens out her control problems and regains the form she had at the end of the high school team's season.

"The spirit is still there and they're still psyched up about playing but we're going to have to get going," Gately said.

Offensively, the squad managed just three hits against Woburn (two by Maria Montouri, two runs batted in) after pounding out 14 hits in the opening game loss to Wilmington at MacDonald Field.

Kathy Mangano led the attack with three hits, including two home runs and four RBI's. Montouri also added three hits with one RBI and Margaret Dokus chipped in with a pair of hits including a home run.

"We actually hit better than they did and we did score 10 runs. It was our fielding and walks that killed us," Gately said.

After striking out the side in the second inning, Bradshaw walked 11 batters in the third that led to an eight-run Wilmington outburst.

"The first two innings she struck out five, including the side in the second," Gately said. "She was really overpowering because every time they hit the ball they were just popping it up. She just has to get her control."

The next home game is scheduled for Monday at MacDonald Field at 6 p.m.

'During the winter of 1859-1860 Winchester was hit by a scarlet fever epidemic in which 10 children died.

Young Gertrude Meserve of Cutting street began taking flying lessons while a student at Winchester High School. After graduating in 1938, she became, at 19, the youngest full fledged pilot in the United States.

Mini-Bus Fares

Effective July 14 the Board of Selectmen raised the mini-bus fares from 25 to 40 cents for adults and 10 to 25 cents for senior citizens and children during all hours of operation.

Earlier the Selectmen had voted to double the fares during peak ridership hours. This vote, however, was rescinded Monday in favor of the 15-cent increase at all times.

WOCA Contract

The Selectmen this week signed a previously agreed upon contract with the Winchester Organized Clerical Association.

The contract, which provides for a 7.5 percent salary increase for each of the next two years and includes provisions for holidays, vacations and maternity beneifts, was called "a good agreement, a well-bargained agreement" by Selectmen Chairman Wade Welch.

Council on Aging

James Donahoe Jr., Robert M. Mulford and J. Paul Marcous were appointed to three vacanices on the Council on Aging. The candidates had been interviewed by the Selectmen at a previous meeting.

Jenks Center

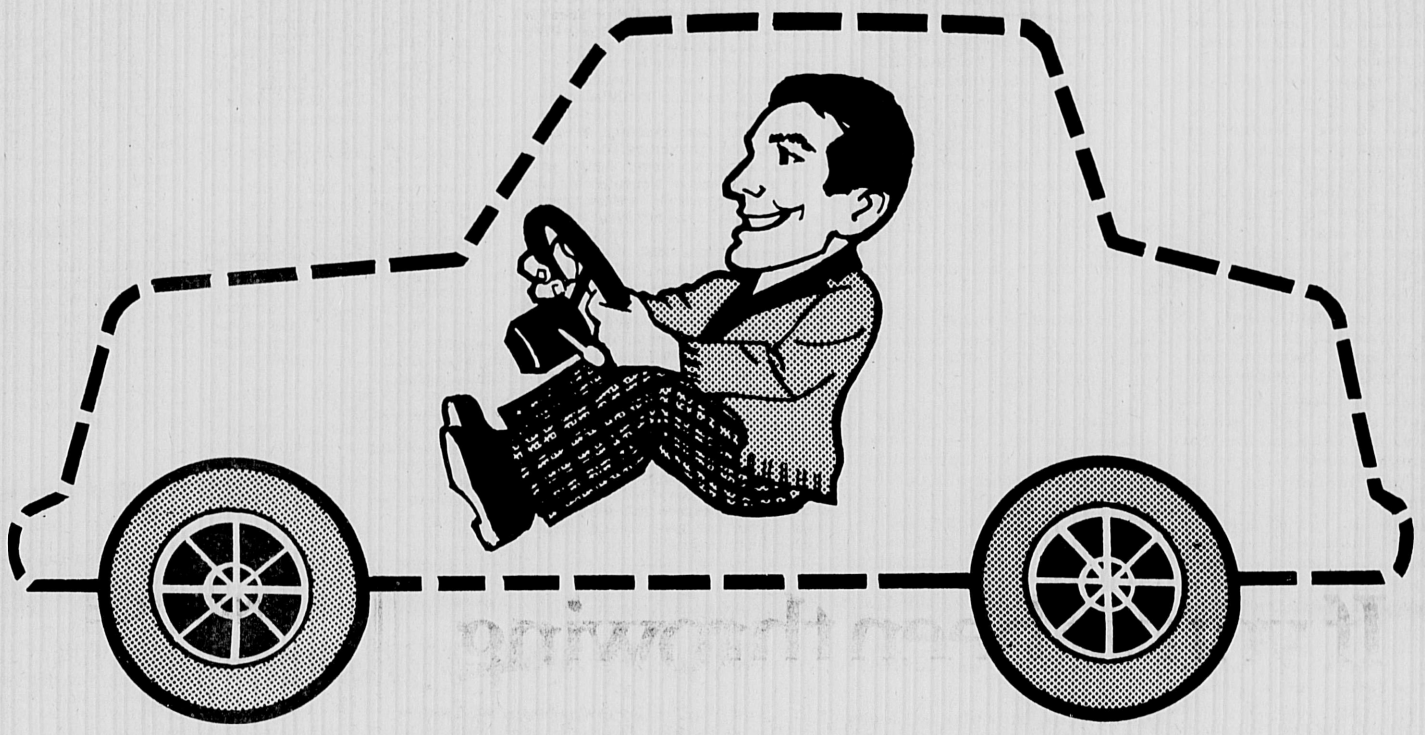

At the request of Paul Amico, the Selectmen signed an acknowledgment that the Jenks Senior Center, as originally agreed upon, was built during the alloted three-year period and a release that the property would not revert to the town.

Pole Permits

At the request of Cable TV Advisory Committee member Lawrence Worthen, the Selectmen will request a pole attachment permit from Boston Edison Co. to allow Continental Cablevsion to string wires through town.

Approval is required from both Boston Edison and New England Telephone companies. To date, Boston Edison approval has not been recieved. Once the permit is grant, construction can begin and a final license signed.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

The House "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local Representatives' votes on 10 key roll calls.

Debt Ceiling (H 6694) - House rejected 95-49, an amendment to the proposed $140 million capital outlay budget. The amendment would put on $6.95 billion ceiling on the state's debt.

Amendment supporters argued that Massachusetts has a poor credit rating because of its high state debt, and urged the House to stop spending and borrowing money without concern for the taxpayers. Opponents said a limitation on debt is no guarantee that the state's credit rating will improve. Some said that the state is in good financial condition now and claimed the state's credit rating is good.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted for the debt ceiling.

Capital Outlay Budget (H 6694) - House approved 126-19, a $180 million capital outlay budget for various construction and improvement projects throughout the state.

Supporters defended the package as a sound and reasonable one that funds worthwhile projects and takes the state's financial picture into consideration at the same time. Opponents said the House added $40 million in amendments onto the original $140 million package, and labelled the new $180 million version irresponsible and loaded with pet projects.

Saltmarsh voted for this budget.

D.A. Salary (H 1865) - House approved 139 - 12, a bill hiking the salary of district attorneys from $36,200 to $45,000.

Supporters argued the raise was justified, noting salaries must be kept competitive in order to attract qualified people since most district attorneys could make much more in private practice. Opponents said the hike was too much and unjustified when the taxpayer is struggling to make ends meet. Some supported a smaller hike.

Saltmarsh voted for the hike.

Hall Of Fame (H 5837) - House rejected 131 - 16, a bill providing up to a $5 million bond issue to build a new Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield.

Supporters argued the new hall would attract 200,000 people and generate some $3 million a year from tourists, as well as create more jobs and increase income tax revenue. Opponents, noting the eventual cost would be at least $10 million, said the hall should be built by private funds. They said the House had no business getting involved in private enterprise.

Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

Auto Repair (H 4512) - House rejected 95-53, a detailed bill establishing a board of registration of automotive repairs and providing for the registration of auto repair shops.

The board would investigate complaints against any shops and gather any evidence of legal violations. It would also have the power, after a hearing, to deny, suspend, revoke, or refuse to renew the registration of any shop found in violation of rules and regulations. The shop could then appeal the decision through legal channels.

Supporters, noting a similar bill has worked well in California, said the bill would help the consumer by setting up a separate powerful board with expertise on auto repair problems and violations. They noted the measure has been endorsed by the Attorney General's office and other agencies who now handle these complaints without enough power and centralization.

Opponents, noting the bill creates another bureaucracy, said small businesses are already over-regulated and the bill is another unnecessary burden. They claimed the bill will result in increased costs of up to 25 percent for consumers, because repair shops will be hesitant to use second-hand or used parts.

Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

The Senate "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records local Senators' votes on two key roll calls from last week's session.

South Africa Funds (S 1316) - Senate refused 27-9, to remove from the table, a bill prohibiting the investment of public pension funds in any firm doing business in South Africa. Leaving the bill on the table means no further action can be taken on it until the Senate votes to remove it. The Senate had tabled the bill last week on a voice vote, even though it had passed it by an overwhelming 29-7 vote April 30.

Supporters of the bill, claiming investments total some $60 million, said the violation of human rights in South Africa is deplorable and should not be condoned with our investments. Opponents of the bill said the bill is unfair unless it prohibits investments in all countries that violate human rights. Some said the measure would lead to that country's economic collapse and open it up to communism.

There was another issue involved here, with some opponents of removing the bill from the table arguing it is Senate custom that the person that made the motion to table a bill must be the one to move to remove it. They noted the motion to table and the motion to remove were made by two different Senators. (Two roll calls are listed below. On the first, the Senate approved the bill 29-7. A "Yea" vote is for the bill. A "Nay" vote is against it. On the second the Senate refused 27-9, to remove the bill from the table. A "Yea" vote is for removing the bill from the table. A "Nay" vote is against removing the bill from the table).

Rotondi voted for the bill and voted to remove the bill from the table.

Letters From Readers

Candidate Thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to use this vehicle to express my sincere appreciation to all who contributed of their time, talent or treasure in support of my candidacy for Selectmen in this special election.

The turn-out was light (some 13 percent) as expected during this most unusual season for elections and I am personally grateful for all those who took the time to exercise their voting privileges.

I must point out that the successful candidate, Mr. Williams, received only slightly more than 50 percent of the vote cast..."by no means a mandate..." which leads me to believe that a little more effort might have produced a substantially different result. We should have an opportunity to test that theory in a few short months.

I thank you all for your efforts and with you I look forward to the spring.

Court Clinic

TO THE EDITOR:

I hope that readers are interested in the recent attention being paid to the provision of psychiatric services to the legal system.

Somehow it seems that courts and corrections, as well as police, are being involved in mental health activities. Out and out mental illness, alcoholism, family crises, drug and other substance intoxications, all are matters in which involvement with the law is but one aspect of overall adaptation problems that encumber many individuals who take up the time and facilities of the judicial system.

The court clinic system, in which psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, and other mental health personnel are housed in clinics within the court houses themselves, is an important instrumentality in the provision of these services. Presently there are 20 court linics in operation, most of which are within the metropolitan Boston area.

We regard it as important to expand court clinic facilities. As an aid toward that end, the Massachusetts Association of Court Clinic Directors is conducting a study of specific mental health needs of the different courts in the Massachusetts Trial Court System. The aim is to be able to deploy the limited court clinic resources most efficiently and most effectively throughout the Trial Court.

It would be most helpful to the study if we could be aided by one or two volunteers. If any of the readers is interested, I should be most appreciative if he or she would contact me at the Woburn District Court Clinic, 935-4000, Ext. 69.

Thank you very much.

Very truly yours,
Nathan T. Sidley, M.D.

Torture

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Here's how the Russians murder helpless Afghan peasants!

First, they are tortured with electric shocks, beatings, and hangings for as long as 15 ou hours. Then they are taken out and thrown into cesspools where they drown in excrement.

Wives who come looking for their loved ones must retrieve them with long sticks. In addition, refugees have told of the use of incapacitating gases, starvation, public rapes, and live burial of thousands of prisoners. A former prison warden is quoted as declaring that only one million Afghans would be left alive our out of a population of 19 million.

Even the radical US State Dept., which supports the Communist enemy at every opportunity, is forced to admit that the Soviet Union is executing hundreds of prisoners in Afghanistan and wiping out entire villages in its drive to subjugate the country.

The spokesman, Warren Christopher, who is a member of the Rockefeller's Council on Foreign Relations (C.F.R.) and formerly the Rockefellers Trilateral Commission, has said that the Reds are holding an estimated 1500 prisoners and are executing 50 of them every night.

He says that the Communists are using two kinds of poison gas, one that incapacitates and one that kills, that they have destroyed "entire villages and I expect these atrocities to increase."

Is that the horror story? Only partially. Even more horrifying is the fact that the One Worlders who now control the US governement are feverishly working to merge free and independent Americans into a One World Socialist state with these self-same Communist butchers.

Madness? Of course it's madness and yet they are doing it.

On every occasion and at every opportunity, the One Worlders in charge of the US government withdraw aid from Anti-Communist countries (Nicaragua, Iran, Rhodesia, etc. etc.) and frantically rush to give aid to Communist revolutionaries.

These betrayals and subsequent support for the enemies of America have produced a situation in which the United States of America now stands at the brink of defeat.

How can this happen? A reasonable person would say that it is impossible for any group of people to undermine, subvert, or betray a country without a reasonable number of concerned people standing up and screaming that "we are being sold-out, we are being betrayed - stop!."

Well, "in a world of fools, 'tis folly to be wise wise" - meaning that, on far too many occasions, people do not act normally or rationally. Here's what actually happened - and why the New World Order has been allowed to work its way into the vitals of American life and practically destroy it.

First, it should be understood that there are three main political groups in the world. There are the Communists, then the Anti-Communists and then there is the third group - the One Worlders.

This last group fancies that it can merge the first two groups together in a one world socialist state that they (the ne orlders) could control. Since they seek to have the ommunists as partners, they have no desire or plan to defeat or destroy the communists. That is why you set no-win wars (Korea, Vietnam) that the One Worlders are so fond of having.

Another example is the recent Bay of Camels incident where the so-called plan to rescue the hostages as so ludicrous that it obviously was just part of the whole charade. In addition, enormous amounts of aid are pumped into the Communist system to keep it alive, since without this aid, communism would collapse.

Thank You

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

My sister already wrote you to thank you for the help you gave my father during these past two months while he had to live 24 hours a day on oxygen.

Since her letter, my father has passed away. My mother, brother and sisters all want to thank you again for the many, many times you were called and assisted him in seconds.

My father was scared having to live with oxygen all the time, but he was confident that if anything went wrong with the oxygen, he would get the help from the Fire Department immediately.

We will never forget the help he got from the Winchester Fire Department two months before his death.

Again, thank you.

Old Townsend

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I wonder if any Winchester folks remember the Old Townsend program where the elders were going to ask for a guaranteed monthly income for all, so they could live in some kind of dignity without feeling like a pauper.

That would have been nice because, if you had money left over, you could buy something for other people and would surely keep money in circulation, which our stores could use, as most of them are suffering.

As far as grocery stores go, if they give credit they are usually in trouble. It would make more sense to give our elderly a guaranteed amount and no more or less each month, than to keep them dangling each year for a cost of living increase that is eaten up with inflation.

Louise Chase

Commission

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The United States has its own secret organization - a powerful illegal party called the Trilateral Commission - dedicated to the establishment of a one-world government.

Not only is Pres. Carter a member of the Trilateral Commission - he had "duped" the Democratic Party in 1976 1976 - but so too is George Bush (resigned when he decided to run for government) also John Anderson. Ronald Reagan's campaign manager Casey is a trialateralist.

This illegal political party has gained incredible power. It is determined to confuse issues and misdirect attention from itself. It comprises some 300 people of the Eastern liberal establishment and business leaders brought together by David Rockefeller.

It was "Zbig" Brezezinski who selected an unknown peanut farmer, James Earl Carter, as the trilateral candidate for the 1976 presidential elections. Rockefeller approved.

The trilaterals groomed Carter in global politics, megabank money and the establishment media helped win Carter the nomination and the job.

The US electorate knew nothing of Carter's real background. Nevertheless, the fact remains that he entered the White Houus a wholly owned Rockefeller subsidiary. His trilateral membership was later voted "the most suppressed story of 1976" by a panel of California journalists.

There can be little doubt that David Rockefeller had hijacked control of US foreign and domestic policy.

Administration trilateralists are Walter Mondale ("Rocky" takes no chances), Cyrus Vance, Brezezinski, Warren Christopher, Secretary of Defense Harold Brown, Andrew Young, Sol Linowitz (Panama Canal give away), America's entire foreign policy and national security team are all trilateralists.

In his biography, "With No Apologies," former presidential candidate Barry Goldwater has some harsh words for the Rockefeller Council on Foreign Relations and Trilateral Commission.

"A number of writers, disturbed by the influential role these organizations have played in determining foreign policy have concluded that the members are an active part of the Communist conspiracy for a "New World Order" and world domination.

"To support this, they cite the fact that since the end of World War II, the free world - the United States in particular - has suffered an unbroken string of defeats at the hands of world communism."

The final aim of the trilaterals is to merge the US with the Eastern bloc and the Soviets.

The tools being used? Manipulation of the US dollar and control of the executive branch of government.

The trilaterals cannot want to scuttle the dollar. That is why Russia and her satellites borrow thousands of millions of dollars - always in American dollars - on longterm loans which will be extended and extended - never to be repaid.

The next election will be the most important in the ho history of America - and maybe the last.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I am disappointed in reading your paper to find that the sports coverage for girls sports is very scarce.

The girls' tennis team had a terrific season but they received very little coverage. Your paper needs to spend a little more time reporting news and a little less time worrying about advertisements.

Waste On Wheels

By Congressman Ed Markey

A truck loaded with radioactive materials is traveling up Route 93. Suddenly, it swerves out of control, smashing up against the guard rail. Containers of spent nuclear fuel lie scattered across the roadway.

Could the accident in this scenario have been avoided? Were local authorities notified that the radioactive cargo would be moving through their cities? Did the trip itself violate a local ordinance?

These are some of the questions I tried to have answered at a public hearing earlier this month on new Department of Transportation regulations concerning the transportation of radioactive materials. The hearing was called after members of the New England Congressional delegation convinced Transportation Secretary Neil Goldschmidt that a public meeting in the region at which citizens could express their concerns about the new rules was urgently needed.

The proposed regulations, if enacted, will route nuclear waste and other radioactive materials over most of the region's major highways and through many of its cities. In Massachusetts, the shipments are expected to pass through New Bedford, Fall River, Springfield, Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill.

These truckloads will travel through congested industrial and residential areas without any restrictions as to the time of day or day of the week although Transportation Department studies have indicated that banning weekend shipments could reduce the potential for accididents by one-half.

The proposed regulations also pre-empt state and local ordinances enacted to control the several hundred thousand shipments of low-level radioactive materials and the relatively few truckloads of spent nuclear fuel that travel the nation's highways annually. Local governments had taken the transportation safety issue into their own hands when it appeared the federal government and the nuclear industry were, at times, handling the safety problems of radioactive transport in a casual, haphazard manner.

State and local governments are in the best position to be informed on road safety conditions. They also have emergency personnel who will be expected to respond to an accident under their jurisdiction. The federal government cannot be in the position to oversee every truck traveling every highway across the country.

Federal regulations are usually promulgated because state laws and local ordinances are not tough enough. In this case, however, the proposed federal guidelines are less restrictive than their local counterparts. In fact, according to the proposed new rules, local or state governments would not have to be notified until 90 days after a shipment had passed through their borders.

One proposal I advocated in testimony at the recent hearing was a set of routing guidelines that would avoid densely populated areas. The Transportation Department has encouraged direct routes where possible, explaining that circuitous routes would increase radioactive exposure for the truck crew.

Increasing the possibility of widespread public exposure to radioactive materials in the event of an accident in a densely populated area in order to protect the crew seems to me to be a questionable priority. It would make more sense to insist on better shielding of the casks and shorter driving periods for the crew.

Another debatabble section in the proposed rule involves the use of tunnels for the transportation of nuclear waste. While most hazardous material is banned from tunnels, the Transportation Department proposes to allow radioactive cargoes to pass through them. The ruling should at least give the state the authority to ban tunnel routes if an alternate route is available.

The coming years will see an increase in the number of trucks carrying radioactive materials through our region. That these materials move safely must be the goal for concerned citizens, for those they elect to public office, and for the federal government.

Under The Stars

The Town of Winchester is one of 169 communities highlighted in "Settlin' In Greater Boston," a new magazine to be used as a recruiting - relocation device by high technology businesses.

Those interested in a free copy of the periodical should contact the publisher, Edwin Cohen, at his 114 State st., Boston, address. The zip is 02109.

Anticipating this weekend's heavy holiday traffic, the Mass. Turnpike Authority recently issued a warning that the 55-mile per hour speed limit will be strictly enforced.

The $5.93 fiscal package signed into law by Gov. Edward King last week contains no new taxes and represents a 4.89 percent increase over this year's expenditures.

Some of the budget includes $1.552 billion in local aid, $2.6 billion for human services (including $1.7 billion for public assistance to provide care for children, sick, elderly and handicapped persons), $400 million for educational programs, $500 million to maintain the legislature, courts and constitutional offices, and $800 million to pay outstanding state debts, pensions and insurance.

The MBTA's first rapid transit and streetcar fare increase in 12 years became effective this past Monday. However, those affected by the pay hike can beat the increase for the next two months by purchasing pre-paid monthly passes.

According to local and state officials speaking at a recent Metropolitan Area Planning Council meeting, Proposition 2 and one-half, which seeks to limit taxes, would hit many metropolitan Boston communities "like a bomb." Hardest hit would be the 94 cities and towns where property taxes exceed three percent of the fair market value.

Perspective

our views and yours on local, state and national issues.

Winchester

Thanks to smart public relations by state officials, led by the Governor, the impact of the Cherry Sheet will probably escape many residents. While the Boston papers ran the figures on state aid and the Governor told interviewers how much he was doing for the cities and towns, no one was pointing out that the Cherry Sheet has two sides: revenues and charges.

State aid is down $9.9 million this year and the net assessments are up a net of $34.5 million. Obviously such disparity means that local taxpayers will have to make up the difference.

But thanks to state officials who were smart enough to pass a tax cap and make voters think that the blame for high taxes belongs on local shoulders, selectmen, city councilors and managers and mayors will take the blame.

Governor King says that his new $5.93 billion budget represents an increase of 4.89 percent yet some town's Cherry Sheet charges are going up more than that. Taxpayers saw what happens when an agency runs out of money last winter. The Governor gave the MBTA $12 million, then told cities and towns in the district to pay half, even though they had opposed the supplement.

That additional assessment is one reason the T charge is increased on the Cherry Sheet, and taxpayers can look forward to more of the same, because this year the T will run out of money sooner. Some towns, including Arlington, plan to go to court to contest the supplementary assessment being placed against them.

One feature of the new budget, which municipal officials feel sets a bad precedent, is that the state will start collecting half of the revenue taken in from parking and traffic violations, a loss of $10-$15 million this fiscal year according to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council.

This is a great game that state officials play. They pretend that they don't know anything about waste, mandated programs, corruption, payroll padding, and pretend to be Santa Clauses passing out the local aid.

If the town meeting-finance (warrant) committee system could be adapted to state agencies taxpayers could be sure the tax rate would plummet. Big government, self-interest, politicians afraid of reform, all make for high taxes, and the system perpetuates itself. It won't be enough to shift the funding of an agency such as the MBTA away from the property tax—we've got to change the way things are run, otherwise taxpayers through their state taxes will still be paying.

So, the next time you hear a state official take credit for giving so much money to the town, tell him if he wants to help taxpayers he can take the MDC, county and MBTA assessments with him, find a better way to run and fund the MBTA, and get rid of county government.

Alice In Budget Wonderland

by Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. and Worth H. Bagley

Budget debates have been and will continue to be in the news. They are difficult to follow because the government is grappling with three fiscal year budgets at any time. Let's sort out just this month's events.

—On June 12, the Senate approved the expenditure through September 30 of $13.3 million to pay for registering 19- and 20-year-old males. After a conference between House and Senate committees to resolve differences with a slightly different House bill, Congress will approve it. In taking this modest step to reduce the time to obtain draftees (if draft legislation is later legislated), the Senate stated that "the most compelling argument" is "the growing tension in the Persian Gulf area" and "the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan."

—This $13.3 million was just one of thousands of changes in the budget for fiscal year 1980. These made it necessary for Congress to adjust on June 12 the 1980 budget statutory spending limit to $572.65 billion. This creates a 1980 budget deficit of $47 billion, replacing the $23 billion projected last fall.

—This action was one of many which increased the total national debt, forcing Congress on June 12, to increase until February 1981 the statutory debt limit to $905 billion.

—On June 12, Congress resolved debate over the first of two fiscal year 1981 resolutions required each year by law. This first resolution specified the spending and revenue targets for fiscal 1981. (In the fall, a second resolution will constitute a binding fiscal blueprint for 1981.) The spending target was $613.6 billion, with $153.7 billion for defense, despite Carter's requested $150 billion. Congress set a larger figure of $170.5 billion for outlays for 1981 and future years (to cover slower programs), about $6 billion more than Carter's figure. Senator "Fritz" Hollings of South Carolina, who replaced ex-Senator Muskie as chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, achieved agreement on the $153.7 billion figure, despite an earlier House rejection. Courageously, Sen. Hollings dug in while offering his liberal opponents an $800 million dollar reduction in the $170.5 billion figure controlling less meaningful future year expenditures and by agreeing to $300 million more for two domestic programs.

—The revenue figure set in this resolution exceeds the $613.6 billion spending figure by $200 million, permitting Congress to claim a balanced 1981 budget. But rapidly rising unemployment will increase budgeted outlays for welfare and reduce programmed tax revenues. Typically, Maryland Representative Robert Bauman said, "Nobody believes this budget is in balance ... it will soon be a budget of $30 billion or $40 billion ... " —With the budget committees, work done for now, Armed Services Committees must "authorize" 1981 defense dollars, for 1981 and future years, which fall within the $170.5 billion. Appropriations Committees must appropriate dollars actually to be spent in 1981 within the $153.7 billion.

—On June 12, the Senate Armed Services Committee voted to "authorize" a significant portion — $51.9 billion — for 1981 procurement of weapons. This was $5 billion more than Carter's request, but $1.2 billion below that authorized by the House. The Senate increases would provide: one additional nuclear submarine; long lead time items for other submarines; two additional guided missile frigates; eight containerships for the rapid deployment force; a battleship and an additional carrier (both restored to service); several additional jet fighter aircraft; vertical landing and take-off aircraft for the marines; a modernized FB-111 program for strategic bombing. On a separate matter, badly needed improvements in military compensation were authorized.

—Meanwhile, all month, the Administration is working in great secret on its 1982 defense budget, with no intention of reversing the decline of U.S. military power.

The Senate additions to Carter's 1981 budget are desperately needed. Our analyses suggest that $15 billion rather than $6 billion would have been prudent. Yet the President, seeking to hold liberal support until November, already has his staff lobbying Congress for cuts of $6 billion in the Authorization bill or on the later action by Appropriations Committees.

Test Scores

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This week the Boston Globe has published standardized test data for 60 school systems in the Boston area. Winchester, of course, made the list, and we are not number one suburb in America.

Our per capita income ranks 6. Our school expenditures per pupil ranks 5. Our SAT scores rank 15. Our percentage of students taking SATs ranks 14.

Our fifth and sixth grade reading scores are based on the Stanford Achievement Test which is used by nine of the 60 schools reported as follows: (Chelsea, Haverhill and Holbrook excluded)

Town	Per Capita Income	Cost per Student	Grade Tested	Equivalent Grade Score
Marblehead	$7847	$2016	6	9.1
Winchester	$7675	$2255	5	7.8
Belmont	$7396	$2158	5	8.1
Reading	$5755	$1643	6	9.0
Bedford	$5730	$2094	5	8.1
Danvers	$4945	$2016	5	8.3

The test results indicate Winchester children are learning to read at a slower rate than those of our neighbors who earn less and spend less on education.

A project for Mr. Ackerman.

Police

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Sometimes I wonder why some kids are resentful of Winchester Police. Well, here's what happened to me.

A friend and I were driving down the road when I saw a drunk man asleep at a stop sign. I went to the police and an officer nicely told me he'd take care of it. I went back to the spot and saw that the drunk man had pulled his car over to the side of the road and passed out.

I went back to tell the officer but he was inside the police station so I just walked in the side door. There was a sign that said "Employees Only" but in my concern I didn't see it. Before I got to the front desk I saw three policeman screaming at me.

I wondered what if it had been an emergency if I'd have had to wait 10 minutes so the police could stop yelling at me. I wasn't drunk, I was just reporting the drunk man but the three policeman made me feel like I had been arrested.

Finally, upon leaving, I couldn't believe what was happening. Another Officer, Officer Oliver, was using foul language and threatened myself and my car. How are we supposed to have respect for the Winchester police when they don't respect us.

The next time you would like your kids respect the police, re-read this letter.

John Peluso

(Editor's Note: According to a police report, the man was not drunk, only tired. This is why when the author returned, the man had moved to the side of the road and fallen asleep. Police Lt. Andrew Crawford said Officer Oliver was not on duty the night of the incident).

Tennis

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On Monday, June 23, I was finally made aware of a gross misuse of power here in the Winchester Recreation Department. On that evening, Mr. Gray, the supervisor at the Palmer Tennis Courts, exhibited an attitude and use of authority unbecoming of a public official. I witnessed and was involved in one of the most blatant misuses of authority I have ever observed.

Winchester High School students are subject to rule six on the "rule board" at the courts, which states, in effect, that all Winchester residents over 18 and Winchester High School graduates will receive courts before those under 18 in all circumstances. This rule overrides any logical "first come, first served" rule. Mr. Gray, in interpretation of this rule, will not reserve courts for anyone under 18.

On that Monday, a friend and I walked to the courts intending to play a singles match. When we arrived, all the courts were taken by adults. We waited a total of 45 minutes to receive a court. When a court became available, we approached Mr. Gray to ask to be placed on the empty court. He told us that he "thought" that someone was coming. We were victims of rule six.

I walked to the benches where I was astonoshed and angered to find four men who had finished playing doubles drinking beer. They sat in front of Mr. Gray as they opened the cans and drank. These men freely broke Chapter 8 Section 21 of the town's Code of By-Laws which prohibits the public consumption of alcholic beverages.

Mr. Gray did nothing to prevent these men from drinking. When I commented to him, Mr. Gray called me a "spoiled brat" and that I was taking out not receiving a court on the men. He also stated that he was not a policeman and could not enforce the laws. Should we have a person who cannot handle such responsibility in an authority-type job?

Mr. Gray came dangerously close to condoning the beer drinking when he told me that the men had worked hard all day and deserved this type of recreation. Why should we obey the rules while others break them without punishment?

I threatened to notify the police. Mr. Gray invited me to do so, saying that the men would then see what kind of person I am. He also told me that from now on, he would never place me on a court because of my complaint.

I believe that Mr. Gray deserves a severe reprimand from the Recreation Department. The Recreation Department should delegate public relation powers to responsible people, not alway to the traditional, "pet" people.

James G. Wagner
2 Wyman Ct.

(Editor's Note: Recreation Director Kenneth Cereghino says that adults do have preference in reserving courts. He noted, however, that this instance is a question of authority and that he supports Mr. Gray's judgment. "We are not infallible in terms of our judgment. It's like a judgment call of an umpire; we call them the way we see them...If there's behavior unbecoming, he's (Gray) in his right to enforce rules and regulations."

Cereghino said the Department does not condone the use of alcohol, although it may be evident nightly at softball games between any business or athletic teams).

Transfer Station

(Editor's note: The following letter is reprinted from last week's Star, at the author's request, because of a typographical error).

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Yesterday (June 17) I arranged my overtime work specifically to be home at 7 p.m. to take my trash to the Transfer Station. When I got there, the gate was closed. Not because of a breakdown or health hazard but, according to the employee standing guard, because of Bunker Hill Day.

Instead of paying two men to keep the facility open, the town's taxpayers were paying this man (probably at double-time rates) to prevent us from dumping our refuse on the approach road, as I was tempted to do in protest.

People who work pay most of our town budget. But, there are only two or three hours during the week we can discard our refuse. (Even including Saturdays, that's less than 25 percent of the hours the Transfer Station is open).

Civil servants should serve the taxpayers with the same diligence our employers expect from us. Why are our town employees celebrating holidays we haven't even heard of?

D.A. Silber
87 Highland ave.

(Editor's note: Public Works Director Walter Tonaszuck says that Bunker Hill Day is a paid holiday as part of the contractual agreement. Tonaszuck says the Department of Public Works has never had the station open on holidays and notes that the holiday was both posted and advertised in advance. He also says that an employee was assigned to the Transfer Station later that day because of refuse being deposited outside that area).

Approximately 400 persons turned out for the Second Annual Family Reunion at the Winchester Nursing and Convalescent Home. A buffet plus entertainment from the Clancey family of Burlington added to the festivities.

Ralph Hatch

Ralph W. Hatch, husband of Olive D. (Scudder) Hatch, died July 1 at Mass. General Hospital, following a short illness.

Born in Winchester in 1898, he was the son of William S. and Lillioan O. (Snow) Hatch. His father was well known as a cabinetmaker. His grandfather, Ira Hatch, was a veneer sawyer in the old Cutter mahogany mill in the North End, and was a Civil War soldier from this town. His mother's people, the Snows, were old-time residents of the West Side hill district.

Educated in town schools, Mr. Hatch graduated from Winchester High School in 1917, having distinguished himself as a fine fielding first baseman on the high school varsity and later on the American Legion and town baseball nines. Mr. Hatch's ban career started in 1917 at the Winchester Trust Co. In 1920 he transferred to the Winchester Savings Bank, from which he retired in 1965 as vice president. During World War I he was a member of the SATC at Tufts College and was a charter member of Winchester Post 97 of the American Legion. He was a past noble grand of Waterfield Lodge of Odd Fellows and a longtime member of the Rotary Club of Winchester. Mr. Hatch held public office for 50 years as a Town Meeting member from 1929 when the town first began holding representative Town Meetings until 1979. For 19 years he was a cemetery commissioner, and for 16 years he was a member or secretary of the Finance Committee. In addition, he served Crawford Memorial Church United Methodist Church as chairman and treasurer of the trustees for many years. Mr. Hatch was also treasurer and director of Winchester Hospital for 32 years, treasurer of the Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross for 10 years, and the Homefronters, the Children's Community Theatre and other organizations. As treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the Winchester Seniors Association, Inc. and as a member of the Council on Aging, he devoted many hours to the building fund for the Jenks Senior Center and to the general welfare of senior citizens. In later years he was active in the Boston Guild for the Hard of Hearing, holding offices of secretary and treasurer. Mr. Hatch's first wife was his high school sweetheart, Mild C. (Foreman) Hatch, who died in 1952. Survivors include his wife, Olive D.; three children, George W. Hatch of Melrose, Jean (Hatch) Wrisley of Londonderry, N.H., and Donald K. Hatch of North Hampton, N.H.; 12 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; one brother, Harold C. Hatch of Falls Church, Va.; and one sister, Marion F. Hatch of Winchester. A memorial service will be held today at 2 p.m. at Crawford Memorial Church. Revs. David B. Purdy and H. Newton Clay will officiate. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery. Arrangements are being made by the Norris Funeral Home. Memorial donations may be made to the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church or to the Winchester Seniors Association, 109 Skillings rd.

New members are: Mrs. Arthur Robertie, Mrs. Robert Moffat, Mrs. Charles Bandoian, Mrs. James F. Murphy, Mrs. Richard Duca, Mrs. Roman De Sanctis, Mrs. Nicholas Vallas, Mrs. Robert Watson, Mrs Thomas Foley, Mrs. David Conners, Mrs. John Null, Miss Elaine Caruso, Mrs. John Wilson and Mrs. James Menucci.

Applications Due July 11 For Grants

The application deadline for quarterly funding for community organizations called Local Projects is July 11.

Non-profit groups planning cultural activities which begin after Sept. 15 are eligible to apply for grants of up to $1000 to help support their projects. To assist those organizations unfamiliar with these Council on the Arts and Humanities programs, workshops will be held in various locations throughout the state.

Correction

In last week's picture of local Belmont Hill School graduates, Justin Kermond's name was omitted. Kermond, who graduated cum laude, will attend Harvard College in the fall.

In 1886 Winchester saw its first street cars. The horse drawn cars jingled through the center of town about once every hour. But, even that disturbance of the peace was resented by some citizens who made a valiant but unsuccessful attempt to persuade the Selectmen to refuse permission for the tracks to enter town.

PROTECTING YOUR HOME
by Richard L. Sampson

"THE WAY WE WERE"

Can you remember the peace of mind we enjoyed back in the fifties and sixties, when the safety of our homes was something we could generally take for granted?

Today the incidence of burglary is at a record high level and rising, and yet, at the same time, hard-pressed municipal budgets include less and less for prevention and investigation of burglaries.

Fortunately, however, rapidly developing technology has given us highly effective new means of securing our homes by means of electronic alarm systems.

The chief of one of the largest suburban police departments in this area said recently: "The only housebreak arrests we're able to make today are ones where the intruders are detected by alarm systems."

If you are not now enjoying the peace of mind which comes with owning a modern security system, feel free to call on us at American Alarm for a careful survey of your home and a thoughtful proposal for establishing its security.

LAND OPTION TECHNIQUE

When considering the purchase of a large parcel of land, it would be wise to think about a technique which has some degree of risk but tremendous profit potential. It is called the land option.

What is an option? It is simply a legal paper that gives you the right to purchase a given parcel of land for a given price during a specified period of time, but not the obligation to buy the land. The cost of the option is generally applied to the purchase price if you exercise the option. If you do not exercise it, the option money is forfeited.

Why is it a good technique to use? Because you "reserve" land at today's price for tomorrow's increase in value. When the parcel's value has gone up you can sell the option at a profit or you can buy at the specified price and resell to another buyer. If your hunch doesn't pan out, all you've lost is the price of the option without tying up a lot of money over a period of years. There are many varieties of options, so it's always best to work with a real estate professional in this area.

GOD FORGIVES. Let Him.

Feeling Guilty? Many people do. Reasons range from broken homes to unbroken habits. Whatever the cause, it's an ugly feeling. Guilt is both the fact of having done wrong and the feeling of blame for doing it. It's worst when the way you live leaves you empty, frustrated, and filled with regret. But there is a solution. Face the fact and remember God forgives. Then let Him! Before this ad was placed we started praying for you because we care. Give us a chance to share.

Analysis: Five Years Later, What Has The Charter Accomplished?

Five years ago the Town of Winchester adopted a Charter.

And with the Charter, along came a Town Manager, the consolidation of various town departments, guidelines for preparation of the annual fiscal budget and specifications for the conduct of semi-annual Town Meetings Meetings.

Five years have now elapsed. The transitory period should be complete, the bugs should be ironed out and the question raised as the the results versus the intent of the Charter.

Reaction of those both affected and involved with the Charter adoption is mixed. Some feel that the results have been positive while others consider it nothing short of disastrous.

Somewhere along the lines, according to members of defunct Charter Commission, there seems to have been "a slip between the cup and the lip" - a difference between what was intended and what has resulted. On the other hand, officials involved and affected by the Charter take a different perspective.

A Monster

"The basic problem is that the concept of revision of government intended to provide better government. We wanted a fulltime administrator, consolidation of manpower, to resturcture and modernize the budget. We wanted more efficient government that would be more economical. That's what we expected," said Clara Hewis, former chairman of the nine-member Charter Commission, "but that's not what we got. We've created a monster."

Hewis says the Board of Selectmen since 1976 have neither understood the Charter nor their responsibilities, and have subsequentlycned their authority over to the Town Manager.

The Board of Selectmen, she says, have allowed the Manager and various

Cap On Hospital Rate Increase Expected To Have Little Local Effect

The confrontation between the Mass. Hospital Association and the state Rate Setting Commission over proposed regulation changes that would reportedly cost the hospital industry over $100 million has been temporarily resolved, pending Gov. Edward King's signature on a compromise bill passed by the Legislature last week.

The legislation would put a 11.5 percent ceiling on the amount hospitals can increase their rates for the fiscal year 1981 that begins Oct.1. The bill also establishes a joint commission to study a uniform payment system that would result in the state and federal governemt paying more in health costs and the commercial insurance companies paying less.

The impact of the cap on the Winchester Hospital is expected to be minimal, according to Vice President of Fiscal Services Richard Dembowski.

"It appears to put it into a holding pattern," Dembowski said of the legislation. "It puts us back to last year's established regulations so we'll at least be stable for this year. It appears that it's the status quo."

The Governor has until July 17 to sign the bill and Dembowski said he would be surprised if it was not signed.

Dembowski added that he anticipated that Winchester Hospital's rates would increase between nine and 10 percent next year which would allow for the approximately $150,000 surplus revenue he says is necessary .

Pamela Horst, attorney for the Rate Setting Commission, explained the legislation does leave an opening for some hospitals to exceed the 11.5 percent cap. The bill requires that the industry - statewide - not increase rates more than

Local Merchant Saves Three Men, One Drowns

It was a traumatic experience for Cosmo Curtatone but what he will remember most vividly about it was the terror in the eyes of his 10-year-old son.

Curtatone, who has owned and operated Cosmos Beauty Design, 10 Skillings rd. for the past 17 years, was credited with the dramatic rescue Sunday of three Brockton men whose boat had capsized while they were fishing in the rough waters near Marion, a small town along the Cape Cod Canal.

One man, however, was not reached in time after the boat he was clinging to sunk when it was hit by a wave. Ironically, the man's fate was sealed by a rope from a lobster trap that caught on Curtatone's engine. It stalled the motor and the seven to eight-minute delay in getting the rope off proved to be fatal.

Ilario Lopes, 50, is still missing but presumed to be dead by police. The boat was found Monday.

Rescued were George Costa, 36, Joaquin Penha, 33, and Alcides Fortes, 37, all of Brockton.

"I'm still not feeling too good today," Curtatone said Tuesday in his shop. "I saw, and my sons saw, a man die right in front our eyes. A couple of nights now I don't sleep and not because I feel guilty. I went after the other guys first because he (Lopes) was on the boat. I thought he would be ok. I never thought he would drown the other three yes, but him, no.

"But then the rope gets caught and the wave hits his boat and my son, Cosmo, he starts screaming. Everybody starts screaming but what can I do. I can't go because of the rope. If I didn't have that problem with the motor I would have saved him. When the motor stopped my heart started to go 'boom, boom, boom,'" he explained as his hands flew up and down.

Marion Police Officer Timothy Centle said none of the four men in the 15-foot fiberglass boat had lifejackets on. He said the accident, the first of its type involving a motor boat this summer, in that area, took place in a small bay that is actually part of the ocean. The waters, on that day, were especially rough.

"If it wasn't for him there would have been four dead instead of one, no doubt about it," Centle said. "Two of them were going down when he picked them up."

He added that Curtatone's coolness during the entire affair was what made the difference. "When there are three people going down and you're with your two young sons (also on the boat was 14-year-old Joseph Curtatone and a friend Richard Martin, 15) you have to really know what you're doing."

And, indeed, Curtatone did know what he was doing. He explained that he had performed a very similar feat almost 23 years ago when he was a harbor policeman in waters off the coast between Rome and Naples.

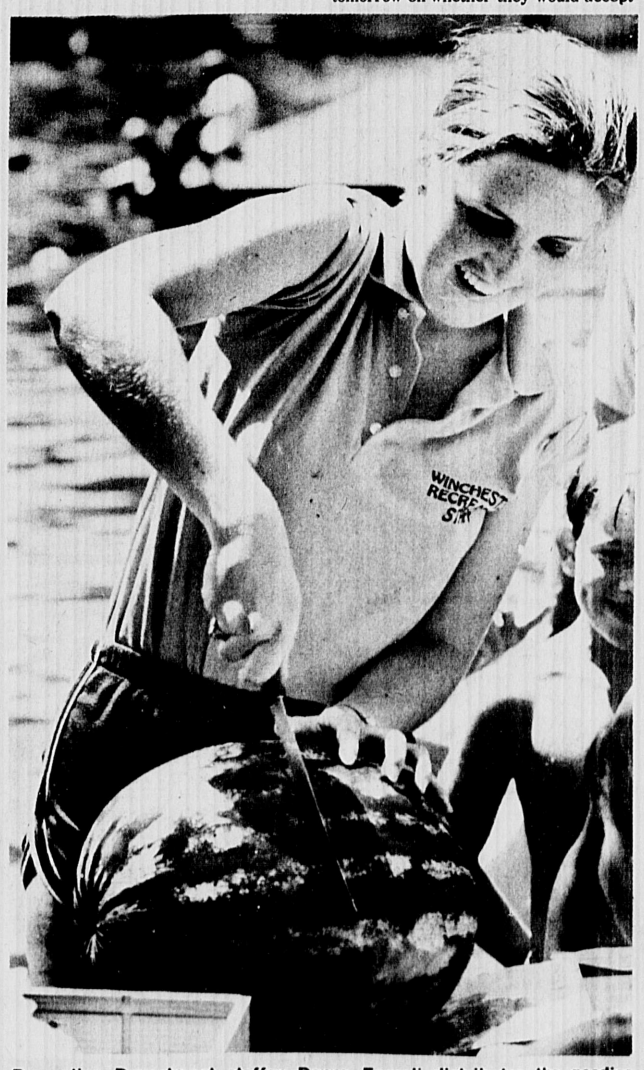

He explained that a boy had fallen into the water and under a boat. He didn't hesitate.

"I jumped into the water with my machine gun still on. We had to always keep it on all the time, no matter what," Curtatone, who has lived in Somerville since coming here in 1962 explained. "So I jumped into the water with the machine gun, heavy shoes and even my hat. It was stupid, I didn't think twice but I pulled the boy out. Luckily I was younger then, just 23 or 24."

He added that he was awarded a bronze medal for his efforts then. But if that had a totally happy ending this incident still left a sour taste, despite his saving three lives. To come so close to saving the fourth only to have the engine stall hurt. That his sons had to witness the scene made it ache worse.

"After the motor was stopped we see the wave hit the other boat and the guy fall off. He's screaming and waving his hands and then he disappears. We finally get the rope off and we go over to the guy and he's gone. The little one was screaming, it was such a shock to him," Curtatone said.

Undoubtedly, future fishing trips while visiting his Wareham cottage will not be quite as enjoyable for either him or his two sons.

State Officials Will Begin Investigating Water Department

State officials are expected to begin investigation today into charges that Winchester has nobody properly certified to run the town's water and sewer department.

The Board of Certification of Operators of Drinking water Supply Facilities is slated to discuss a complaint filed by Francis Sopper, president of Pipeline Testing , Inc., 10 Canterbury rd., that charges neither current water department Superintendent Richard Warrington nor anyone else in the department is properly certified.

The state board's regularly scheduled meeting will start at 9:30 this morning at the Saltonstall Building on Cambridge street in Boston. Board Chairman Robert McCracken said he did not know when the Sopper complaint would be discussed.

"The town is paying Warrington $24,000 a year and we don't have anyone certified to be in charge. There's nobody in the department with a Class III license which the law says we must have," Sopper said.

Under Mass. General Law Chapter 233, section 75, communities must have at least one person certified in the water department to the same level as the facility. A grade III facility therefore would need at least one person with Class III certification. That person does not necessarily have to be the head of the department. But whoever has direct field supervision of the water facility must have the proper certification.

Winchester, at this time, has no such person, Sopper maintains. Three department members - James Haggerty, Ronald Conlon and Frank Olivadoti - have Class II certifications. The town consequently must hire someone who is qualified, Sopper insists.

"Whoever has the responsibility has a right to be in charge and the man with the

Parkhurst Saga: Resident Threatens To File Lawsuit

The ongoing saga of the fate of the Parkhurst School took yet another turn this week when on the same night the Selectmen began negotiations with the Bartlett School, a Parkhurst neighborhood resident threatened to file suit if the site was not used for residential housing.

William Caci, 47 Samoset rd., informed the board Monday night that he has retained legal counsel and is prepared to take action against the town if the Parkhurst site is used for anything but residential housing.

He also blamed the failure of Town Meeting to approve eight single family house lots at Parkhurst on the last minute proposal from Bartlett to lease the building.

But there were also other significent developments this week concerning the "musical schools" solution involving the Parkhurst and Wyman Schools and the Waldorf School, a small private school similar to Bartlett.

— Negotiations began in executive session Tuesday night between the Selectmen and Bartlett attorney Robert Graves concerning that school's proposed move from the Wyman School to the Parkhurst.

— Waldorf Business Manager Pat Brandes said a recent vote of the faculty decided that the school was not interested in the Parkhurst facility but did have an interest in Wyman

— Waldorf officials told the Selectmen that they would have a final decision by tomorrow on whether they would accept an alternative location in Belmont.

— Should Waldorf reject the other Belmont location, Winchester would have to make a decision by the end of this month on whether the Wyman School would be available.

— The board, the Alternative School Use Committee and Wyman residents expressed approval of the Waldorf as a tenant in the Wyman School.

There was no word on how the negotiations went Tuesday night. What the discussions will center around are the length of the lease and whether an option to buy will also be offered.

Brandes dispelled reports that the Waldorf was actually interested in buying or even leasing the Parkhurst School. Although there had been such discussion when town officials, residents and school officials toured the two school sites Monday morning, the Waldorf faculty has voted to eliminate that option.

The Selectmen emphasized that quick action is necessary for any deal to be reached. "I can see how it seems overwhelming that a permanent decision on the Parkhurst School can be made in just two or three weeks time but it may not be as necessarily permanent as you might suggest," Re-Use Chairman Charles Tseckares said in answer to a resident's concern.

"We simply are going to have to move quickly on this thing," Selectman Chairman Wade Welch added. "The board will have to make its best judgment and then we'll have to live with it. Hopefully, we'll make an informed judgment."

Tseckares and the board both agreed that the Waldorf was a "proper" tenant for the Wyman School, a factor they - insisted was paramount. "First we must be sure we're doing no harm at Wyman then we can go on with the Parkhurst problem," Welch said.

"The first thing we have to consider is would the Waldorf be an 'equal tenant?' After today (Monday) the feeling is that they are pretty upstanding people and would be pretty good neighbors," Tseckares said.

Selectman Edward O'Connell agreed. "Whatever apprehension I had (about Waldorf) has been totally dispelled."

The Waldorf is slightly smaller that Bartlett presently with similar kindergarten through sixth grade enrollment. School officials told the board they are interested in expanding through grade eight and possibly through grade 12 in the future. But any Wyman plans would be strictly short-term. The school is currently building a larger permanent facility in Belmont which will be ready in approximately two years.

Mary Pacetti, member of the Parkhurst neighborhood group, said Caci is alone in his quest for residential housing at Parkhurst. "I want you to know Mr. Caci is speaking strictly for himself," Pacetti told the Selectmen. "This is the first we have heard about this (legal action)."

The latest developments are just

Unlicensed Dogs Will Be Fined Dog Officer Says

Dog Officer Nick Molea announced this week that he will be starting to issue $10 fines to residents that have yet to get their dogs licensed for 1980.

License fees for male dogs are $4, female dogs $7 and spayed females $4. There will be an extra $1 charge for those who didn't get a license before June 10.

Molea also reminded residents that there is a $500 fine or imprisonment of not more than one year for people that willfully abandon their pets. He said his department has been picking up stray dogs in recent weeks.
